How to work this project

- This is a touch screen computer. All you need to do is touch the area you are interested in twice. Double tap it. It will then open up. Tap slide show on the top bar. Then tap from the beginning. If you prefer to use the mouse and keyboard it also works that way. Detailed laminated instructions are provided for those that need more help. If all else fails, ask one of our kind, courteous, friendly staff members.
 - To go to something else that interests you, just click the big red X in the top right corner. “Or” To stop, just hit esc. on the keyboard (upper left button) and it will stop and you can go to another section.

- This project was a joint venture between the Williamson Public Library and the great folks at the Williamson/Pultneyville Historical Society. The Historical Society provided the author with unfettered access to the archives at the historical society, without which none of these images could have been duplicated. Thank you to the board of the Williamson/Pultneyville Historical Society. Without their help, none of this could have been accomplished. Also thanks to Jackie Walker the liaison that was appointed by them to help the library with this project.
 - Thank you also to the Board of Trustees at the Williamson Public Library for providing the author with the time and materials to complete this project.

- This project was first presented in the Fall of 2013 and was dedicated in September of that year to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the Public Library. It is not a complete history of E. Williamson, Pultneyville, or Williamson. It is intended to be ever changing and it is our hope that the citizens of Williamson constantly add to it. If you would like to add to it, just give your information to one of the libraries wonderful employees. They will make sure that the information is scanned, added to the correct section, and returned to you in perfect condition in a timely manner.

About the author

- Important note: Not every family, nor every asset of our history is listed here. All errors are the result of the author, Patrick Wright. So all credit goes to the other institutions and all blame goes to him.
 - Mr. Wright is a former history teacher. He has a Bachelor's and a Master's degree in History from SUNY Brockport. He taught American History for ten years in Oakfield. He was a High School Assistant Principal at Oswego, MS Principal here in Williamson, Principal at Dake Jr. High School in Irondequoit, Principal at Frank Knight Elementary School in Seneca Falls, Adjunct Professor in Education at SUNY Brockport, Member of the Williamson Pultneyville Historical Society, Vice-President of the Williamson School Board, and President of the Williamson Public Library Board of Trustees.
